

Comments Policy for Rep. Mike Conaway's Blog

- All postings received by Rep. Mike Conaway's Blog is considered intended for publication unless otherwise indicated in the initial message from the writer.
- Rep. Mike Conaway's Blog reserves the right to edit posted comments for content, clarity, and length.
- Comments that are abusive, offensive, contain profane or racist material for this blog's host provider will be removed and the author(s) banned from future comments. All points of view are welcome on Rep. Mike Conaway's Blog, with the following exception:
- Rep. Mike Conaway's Blog will limit commenters to one comment a day. All comments in excess of this amount will be deleted.
- Name-calling, personal attacks, racist comments or use of profanity by any commenter, whether they are by persons who agree or disagree with the views expressed by Rep. Mike Conaway's Blog will not be tolerated and will result in the deletion of the comment and the banning of the poster.
- URL's within the body of the comment must be in html format and appropriate to the subject matter or they will be deleted as they skew the site. Instructions are in the comment box.

Disclaimer:

- Reading and posting comments at Rep. Mike Conaway's Blog constitutes acknowledgment of and agreement to the terms outlined in this comment policy. This comment policy may be revised in part or in full at any time.
- All comments must comport with applicable state and federal laws. Rep. Mike Conaway's Blog has no obligation to monitor, edit, censor, or take responsibility for comments. It may or may not act upon a violation of its comment policy once a suspected violation has been brought to its attention. Therefore, commenters are solely responsible for the content of their comments and should ensure that their comments are lawful and fall within the stated guidelines of both Rep. Mike Conaway's Blog and FCC guidelines.
- Rep. Mike Conaway's Blog is not be responsible for injury or liability to any reader or commenter resulting from its own communications or those of commenters, that may be offensive, misleading, inaccurate, illegal, or otherwise unsuitable in the view of the reader. Readers and commenters further agree to indemnify and hold harmless Rep. Mike Conaway's Blog from claims resulting from the use of any material appearing on Rep. Mike Conaway's Blog which damages the reader, commenter or any other party.
- Rep. Mike Conaway's Blog is not responsible for material posted in the comments section.